

NOT A SOLD LA FOLLETTE DELEGATION

GOVERNOR DENIES REPORT THAT WISCONSIN CONTINGENT WILL SUPPORT SENATOR.

PHILIPP FOR HUGHES

Announces His Preference for Supreme Justice and Declares He Will Use Influence With Uninstructed Delegates.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Madison, May 23.—The statement by a Chicago paper that Wisconsin's twenty-six votes in national republican convention are to go to Senator La Follette on the first ballot was denied by Governor Philipp this morning. The governor repeated his former declaration that he would vote for Justice Hughes on the first ballot.

"As far as I am concerned, the rumor printed in the Chicago paper is entirely without foundation, and I do not know in whose mind it was born. I shall vote for Justice Hughes on the first ballot."

"I expect to attend the meeting of the eleven, or ten, uninstructed delegates in Milwaukee next Thursday, and I shall urge the other delegates at that meeting to vote for Hughes on the first ballot."

"As for the other part of the rumor in which I am referred to as a candidate for vice president, I will say I have no vice presidential bee buzzing around me."

M'GOVERN MAY NOT ATTEND CONFERENCE

Large Percentage of His Followers, However, Will Be Present at Gathering of Progressives.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., May 23.—The conference of progressive republicans of Wisconsin is a certainty. It will be held about June 20. It is hoped to hold it later but many of the men who are interested in the state convention, "beavers" as superior are desirous of attending and an earlier date is now being sought for to accommodate these men. The conference will be held in the city of Madison and in all probability in the university gymnasium.

Petitions were put into circulation all over the state today asking men to sign names along the rank and file of the progressive republicans. Each of the localities are expected to send in a list of ten or a dozen more names. Word that has been received from Racine indicates that the local contingent of Governor McGovern are entering into the conference and are signing the petitions for a call.

The statement of Senator Otto Bosshart of La Crosse, one of the two progressive candidates for governor, stating that he favors a conference, has brought considerable satisfaction to the progressive republicans. The general sentiment is that Senator Bosshart places his allegiance to the progressive cause above his own ambition. The McGovern followers of this community are confident that the governor will come into the conference. More direct word from Milwaukee would indicate that Mr. McGovern would participate, although probably half of the conference will be made up of his following.

When W. S. Goodland was here last week, he carried with him many replies to the general opinion of most of these letters that both Bosshart and McGovern should retire and give their party support to some third man. Since that time the talk of the third man has centered mostly around two individuals—Senator A. W. Sanborn of Ashland, and Attorney General Walter C. Owen of Madison.

It is generally expected that Senator Sanborn has been one of the strongest supporters of Gov. McGovern. Nevertheless, he has endorsed the conference plan and the rank and file of the progressive republicans are anxious to make the race. He prefers to be re-elected attorney general. The conference will endorse other state officers.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] British headquarters in France, May 23.—Confirmation of reports that the German casualty lists are so far in arrears that their total as issued from time to time is in no wise representative is declared now to have been supplied.

It is now known that the names of Germans taken prisoners and left dead in the trenches at the battle of Loos in September last, have only just been published as among the German missing.

BIG MEXICAN ARMY WILL BE EMPLOYED IN BANDIT CHASE

Carranza Orders 30,000 Troops Into Region South of Border—U. S. Soldiers Have New Use For Motor Trucks

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, May 23.—The Carranza government has ordered 30,000 troops into the region south of the border to exterminate bandits, according to information today at the state department. General Obregon's order is dated May 22. Carranza, who is in Paso with General Scott and Funston, assigned 10,000 men to General Trevino to thoroughly police the territory south of the American expedition.

Field Headquarters, May 15, motor to Columbus, N. M., May 23.—Automobiles were put to a new military use in the Villa campaign on May 14, when the bandit leader under Colonel Julio Cardenas, was killed with two of his lieutenants.

Three touring cars from General Pershing's camp started out midway for a ranch, a short run across the mountains, the residence of the Cardenas family and the scene of occasional shooting at American troops. The Cardenas family, all women and children, remained unmolested notwithstanding positive information to the American staff that the bandits frequently used his ranch for a rendezvous. The automobiles, with an order to buy corn as an ostensible purpose, made a fast run over the mountain foothills to the ranch under command of Lieutenant Patton of General Pershing's staff. Within a mile of the ranch, the car stopped at a hill from which they made a dash toward their objective which would have been impossible for cavalry. Running nearly sixty miles an hour they were within less than 200 yards of the buildings before their presence was discovered.

A Mexican working in the yard gave the warning, but it was too late. By the time Cardenas and his two men could get on their horses and dash for the ranch gate, the Americans surrounded the place. Cardenas was the first man to emerge from the shelter. He and Lieutenant Patton engaged in a pistol duel in which a shot from Patton's revolver broke the bandit's arm and drove him back into the ranch house, later to be killed by the American soldiers when he tried to escape.

Sibley's Troops Return. Washington, May 23.—Colonel Sibley's four cavalry troops which entered Mexico early two weeks ago in search of Green Springs and Boquillas bandit raiders, were back at the border without casualties. They rescued two American shield prisoners by bandits, and brought back five Mexican captives.

Marion Letcher American consul at Chihuahua City was due to arrive at Washington today with a full report on economic conditions in northern Mexico. The Carranza government was preparing another note to be dispatched to the United States within a few days.

Complaints Against Troops. At Ascension in the Casas Grandes district, was received by General Garza in Juarez today in a telegram from the mayor of the town.

EMPLOYERS WILLING THAT WORKMEN TRAIN

Oshkosh Gas Company However Will Not Be Responsible for Service If Men Enlist.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Madison, May 23.—That the Oshkosh Gas company will not hold itself responsible for good service if its employees join the Wisconsin National Guards, being liable to a call to arms, was indicated in a letter recently received by the Wisconsin railroad commission.

Some time ago, the adjunct general's office sent a letter to all prominent manufacturers in the state asking them if it would not be possible for who desired to be given time to drill with the national guard.

Practically all employers of labor in the state have sent in an affirmative reply. The Oshkosh Gas company, however, in its reply declares it is perfectly willing to permit its employees to take the drill, but that it will not be responsible if service is poor as a result of releasing some of its best men.

HOLD LOCKER CLUB IS LAW VIOLATION

Supreme Court Makes Decision With Reference to Stoughton Organization.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Madison, May 23.—The operation of a locker system by a club in a dry city means of which liquor is dispensed to club owners, is a violation of the law, the supreme court ruled in the case of the state of Wisconsin against the Stoughton club.

The Stoughton club was composed of sixteen members. They maintained a club room for the purpose of holding gatherings and of drinking liquor. Complaint was made against the club and the defendants demurred the complaint. Judge Stevens held against the club and an appeal was taken. The only issue represented upon this appeal is whether the complaint states facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action.

First Witnesses Called in Waite Murder Trial; Physicians Tell of Finding Arsenic in Viscera.

Top, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Warren Waite. Bottom, Mrs. Margaret Horton and telegram suggesting poisoning.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, May 23.—Dr. Victor C. Vaughn, dean of the medical department of the University of Michigan, at Ann Arbor, was the first witness called in the murder trial of Dr. Waite, against the murder of Dr. Waite, by Mrs. Dorothy Van Valkenburg, former intimate friend of Mrs. Margaret Horton, with whom Waite started a "studio" apartment, arrived shortly before court convened. It was expected she would be a witness for the state.

Mrs. Clara Louise Peck Waite, wife of the prisoner, was not in court when the hearing was resumed, but it was said she would probably be called soon to testify against her husband. Percy Peck, son of John E. Peck, his wife, aunt from whom Waite is descended, has obtained more than $40,000 in purposes of investment, were in court, as also were Warren Waite and Frank Waite, respectively father and brother of the prisoner.

Dr. Vaughn, who made analysis of Mr. Peck after the autopsy was ordered at Grand Rapids, described in minute details the effect of arsenic poisoning on Waite's aged victim and Dr. Vaughn swore he found two and a half grains of arsenic in Mr. Peck's stomach, and amounts of it too small to weigh in other organs.

Dr. Otto H. Schultze, medical examiner for the district attorney of New York, testified concerning his visit to Grand Rapids to investigate Peck's death.

Dr. Stanley R. Benedict, professor of chemistry at Cornell Medical school, corroborated the testimony of Dr. Vaughn as to presence of arsenic in the body.

Dr. Benedict added that in examining part of the brain of the dead man, he found an unmistakable trace of chloroform. Later he inspected the embalming fluid used, but found no trace of arsenic or chloroform.

The state continued to pile up medical testimony today of the foundation of its case against Dr. Arthur Warren Waite charged with murdering his father-in-law, John E. Peck, of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Dr. A. Moore, the physician who attended Mr. Peck before his death at the Waite apartment in New York, yesterday testified that Dr. Waite admitted he had purchased arsenic for his aged father-in-law. The reason given according to the witness was "the old gentleman did not want to live."

In his opening address, District Attorney Swanwick declared that Waite hastened his victim's last moments by applying to his nostrils, a handkerchief soaked with chloroform.

NEW BRITISH NOTE PASSED BY WILSON

French Government Will Also Have a Copy of the Protest Against England's Methods.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, May 23.—President Wilson sent to the state department today the completed draft of the new note to Great Britain protesting against the interference with American mails. It was not long before the cabinet, but its general terms were explained. The note will be called to London immediately and it is understood a duplicate will go to the French government.

GENERAL FRENCH HAS A NEW CLOCK SYSTEM FOR HOME DEFENSE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] London, May 23.—Field Marshal Lord French, who is now responsible for the home defenses of England, has introduced the twenty-four hour partition to prevent the danger of confusing A. M. with P. M. One o'clock in army orders now means one in the morning; twelve o'clock is noon, and twenty-four o'clock is midnight.

An order issued by Lord French at seven in the evening is timed 19 o'clock. Thus there can be no possibility of mistake. Many years ago, when the military authorities were slow to make the change, the "round time" system in this country, and clocks and watches were manufactured with the full 24 hours round on the dial, but the idea never became popular.

CUT WOMEN VOTE IN PORTO RICAN BILL

Deny Women Suffrage By Striking Out Amendment to Measure, Which Then Passes.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, May 23.—The house struck from the Porto Rican bill today by a vote of 32 to 59, an amendment designed to grant woman suffrage to the islands. The bill then passed without roll call, virtually as introduced. The vote on the amendment shows a complete disregard of party lines, though more democrats than republicans voted against it. It was inserted in the bill by Minority Leader Mason.

Representatives of suffrage organizations who had made no attempt to have the amendment inserted in the bill, were out in force in the galleries. Disappointment at the failure of the amendment was expressed for a record vote, but Mr. Mann did not request one. The bill as passed, gives the Porto Rican government all its internal revenues, regardless of whether the goods on which it is paid are used in Porto Rico or this country. Hereafter revenues on goods used in the United States have gone to the federal treasury.

Property and educational qualifications are provided for applicants for citizenship under the measure and the employment for children under fourteen in injurious or hazardous occupations would be prohibited. The measure now goes to the senate.

POLITICS DIVIDES WOMEN'S CONVENTION

Rival Candidates for President of National Federation Begin Active Campaigning.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, May 23.—The busiest of several thousand women were here to attend the 13th biennial convention of the general federation of women's clubs, the rival candidates for the presidency, Mrs. Samuel Sneath of Tiffin, Ohio, and Mrs. Josiah Evans Cowles of Los Angeles, and their campaign workers.

Judging from the claims of the rival delegation, the contest for the presidency will line up the east against the west. Mr. Sneath's friends say they are sure of the middle western and southern states, while the Pacific coast and Rocky mountain delegations are claimed by the followers of Mrs. Cowles. The Atlantic coast delegation have not declared themselves, however, and the votes probably will decide the contest.

The shoes were warranted to be hand-sewed, he claimed, but a nail in the sole of one shoe caused an infection. Kirwin lost his case at lower court at Superior.

Dr. Whitaker was testifying for the defense in an attempt to refute testimony of a physician and nurses from Ottawa that Mrs. Matters had not had a child while there.

GIVES BROWN COUNTY TOWNS A CHANCE TO CORRECT THE ASSESSMENT OF PROPERTY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Green Bay, May 23.—At the conclusion of a hearing this morning on the 1915 assessment of property in the towns of Green Bay, Appleton, Pittsfield and Glenmore in Brown county, Chairman Haugen of the Wisconsin tax commission granted the towns an opportunity to correct assessment this afternoon. FRENCH HAVE RECAPTURED DOUAUMONT

REGAIN ALL BUT SMALL PART OF FORT TAKEN BY GERMAN MANS EARLY IN VERDUN BATTLE.

HILL 304 IS STORMED

Germans Launch Severe Attack on French Positions West of Meuse Using Liquid Gas.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Paris, May 23.—Fighting continued with extreme violence on both banks of the Meuse, along the Verdun front, during the whole night. Two German counter attacks on French positions on Hill 304 failed completely. The war office announced this afternoon.

The French made further gains within Fort Douaumont. The Germans now hold only a small angle on the northeastern corner of the fort.

Use Liquid Gas. The battle around Hill 304 was especially severe. In attacking French positions on west side of the hill the Germans used liquid gas, the official statement says, and penetrated one of the French trenches, but were dislodged at once.

On the east side of the hill the Germans attacked after intense artillery preparation, but were not permitted to reach the French lines. The principal fighting east of the Meuse was in the sector between Thiaumont and Douaumont. The Germans attacked in mass formation and are said to have suffered enormous losses. The French succeeded in recapturing one of the trenches north of Thiaumont which had been captured by the French.

Elated at Fort's Capture. Recapture by the French after three months of the greater part of Fort Douaumont, which was taken by the Germans at the outset of their Verdun drive, is received with great elation by the press and the public, the more so on account of the effect it is expected to have on neutral opinion.

General Nivelle, the French commander, is expected to make advantage of the fact that the Germans recently have been concentrating all their attention on Dead Man Hill, on the other side of the river, and assembled a large amount of armor for the attack on the Douaumont sector.

On Sunday General Nivelle began a heavy artillery attack on Fort Douaumont and adjacent divisions. The hour fixed for the infantry assault was 4:30 p. m. yesterday. When the moment came, French infantry was carefully selected and trained and began the advance singing the "Marseillaise."

Meet Stubborn Resistance. The resistance at some points was stubborn. On the Froidevalle road and Douaumont, the French had to force back the German infantry inch by inch at the point of the bayonet. The leading front French contingent reached Fort Douaumont at 5 o'clock. They killed the Germans who resisted and sent to the rear a large number of prisoners.

As soon as they recovered from their surprise, the Germans launched a number of fierce counter attacks, but all failed, and by 10 p. m. arrangements had been completed to deal with the serious efforts the Germans were making to recapture the lost positions. The French success is considered by military critics here to have shaken the whole German front at Verdun. Fort Douaumont was the most important point captured by the Germans, and the French gain there is regarded as having nullified the most significant achievement of three months.

West of the Meuse, Hill 295 and the western summit of Dead Man's hill have become a no man's land, like Hartmann's Woe.

Germans at Fort? Berlin, May 23.—Announcement was made by war office today that in fighting north of Verdun the French had taken some first line positions of the Germans, and that Fort Douaumont remains in German hands.

OSTEOPATHIC ASSOCIATION OPENS MEETING IN MILWAUKEE.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 23.—The eighteenth annual meeting of the Wisconsin Osteopathic association opened at the Wisconsin hotel here today. Legislation beneficial to Osteopaths will be the most important topic to come before the convention during the two day meeting.

Oshkosh will probably procure the next meeting of the association. The organization has a system of holding its meetings in Milwaukee one year and in some other city of the state the next year.

For several years a plan of equalizing railroad expenses has been in operation in the organization. The total amount of fares is computed and then averaged among the members so that delegates may attend the meetings from remote parts of the state without great expenses.

COL. KIMBERLEY AND WIFE WERE WEDDED FIFTY YEARS AGO

Colonel E. O. Kimberley and Wife Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary at Broadhead Today.

Colonel and Mrs. E. O. Kimberley, 1321 Ravine street, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary this afternoon at the home of the Spaulding sisters in Broadhead. A reception was held this afternoon. The Colonel served through the war in the Third Wisconsin Infantry and later was in the newspaper business. He was editor of the Broadhead Independent then with a paper at Sioux City, Iowa, and has been a resident of Janesville for the past few years. He is the official biographer of the G. R. in this state, and was junior commander in 1911. The Colonel and his wife have many friends in Janesville and Broadhead, who offered them many congratulations on their fiftieth anniversary.

PLAN FOR CHANGES AT COUNTRY CLUB

Water Color Sketch Shown in Windows of People Drug Company Would Greatly Improve Property.

Plans for material changes in the building of the Janesville Country Club have been received from Arthur G. Gilbert of Racine, a prominent architect who has made a specialty of club houses and decorative buildings. These plans are now in the hands of the directors of the Country club and will be acted upon at a future meeting.

The changes to the club house would include the tearing out of the main locker room on the main floor and throwing the room into a room. This would give an additional floor space of some twelve to fifteen feet. It would also include tearing out of the present stairway to the basement, and building a new one, also building an addition on the north side of the building along the whole length. This would include new locker rooms for the ladies, including shower baths. A new kitchen, quarters for the chef and a passage way to the enclosed porch on the east end of the building where the meals are served.

In the basement the changes would be more radical. The locker rooms would be moved from the present dark and damp quarters into the new addition to the north, at the east end. Then further to the west would come the new locker rooms. The west would be the professional room and exit to the course. The old locker rooms would be utilized for a lounge room for the men and for storage purposes. The stairway to the second floor inside would be changed. The passage way near the shower baths. These changes are estimated to cost some three thousand dollars. The directors are anxious to obtain the view of the members of the club, and the changes would be made to near from them before any definite decision is made. Thus far several thousand dollars worth of stock that had been sold as treasury stock, has been sold, and many new members have been added to the list so that it is possible the contemplated changes will be made.

NEW STOCK COMPANY BEST EVER HERE

The Sherman Kelly Stock Company Pleased Many at the Myers Theatre Last Night in Their Opening Show, "My Dream Girl."

The Myers Theatre ushered a new stock company into the hearts of Janesville theatre goers last night, when the Sherman Kelly company initiated their seven day stand here with a rattling good comedy drama, "My Dream Girl." The name of the piece that started their engagement here is booming and in every way entirely pleased the good sized audience. The story of the play tramped a good opportunity for much dramatic acting on the part of the principals, and was mainly overladen with sparkling comedy.

Sherman Kelly, heading the company, was a strong favorite in the role of the gay-hearted millionaire, who was willing to sacrifice his fortune for the love of a little "dream girl." He proved to be a comedian of unusual merit, the inspiration of many a laugh, and in the dramatic touches, his winning personality carried him "by" storm with the audience. Macy Will, playing the part opposite Mr. Kelly, did well, and in fact the entire company displayed much talent in the characterization of their respective parts and was plainly the result of long and harmonious work together. The vaudeville sketches sprinkled in between acts brought forth the old time favorites, the Le Grande Trio, in some very clever song and dance specialties.

If "My Dream Girl" is a truly fair example of the Sherman Kelly plays in his list of productions, we wish him the best of luck in his stay here, for his company showed last night the cleanest and most entertaining stock show ever presented in Janesville. "The Traitor" will be shown tonight.

TWO BEFORE COURT ON DRUNK CHARGES

Broadhead Man Convicted Court He Is Deserving of Chance to Escape Fine.

There were two "sick" men before the municipal court this morning on the charge of drunkenness. One succeeded in convincing the court that he was a victim of a physical affliction to such an extent that he was dismissed from legal responsibilities. The other, however, failed.

Joe Charley of Broadhead, arrested at the Milwaukee railway station, denied he was under the influence of liquor, but rather, had a "spell." "You got three bytes" about every time you come to town, don't you?" asked Chief Champion, as the prisoner got through explaining why he staggered like a drunken sailor. The judge called on the witness and then told the prisoner to catch the morning train for Broadhead or he would be brought up for trial this afternoon.

Emil Noodles, and Noodles, he said, was his right name, paid a fine of two dollars and costs for drunkenness.

WIN BRONZE MEDAL AT PACIFIC FAIR

Janesville Public Schools and Playgrounds Are Honored at Panama Exposition.

Janesville public schools and playgrounds received special mention and honors from the Panama exposition which was held at San Francisco last year. A large bronze medal and certificate was received by Superintendent H. C. Buell yesterday as trophy for the exhibit that was sent to the fair. The exhibit was composed of numerous pictures showing the phases of Janesville's growth and especially the public schools and playgrounds. Pictures of the pageant that was given in 1914 and also views of the swimming at Goose Island and playground hikes were included in the collection.

The local display of the collection attracted a great deal of attention and, authorities there deemed it wise to make special mention of it. Janesville's exhibit was one of the few that were awarded medals and was ranked on a par with other schools of the state.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Janesville, Wis., May 22, 1916.

Editor Gazette:

As a number of the manufacturing concerns of Janesville are giving their employees a half holiday on Saturday afternoons during the summer months, why can't the employees of the various stores and shops also enjoy a half holiday some afternoon during the week? I am sure it is just as hard to work in stores on a hot day as it is in a factory, and a half holiday, say on Wednesday afternoons, would be appreciated both by employers and employees.

If a petition were passed to the various merchants, I think there would be but a few who would not sign it, and the majority of merchants would only be glad to sign it and give their employees a half holiday during the summer months, besides enjoying themselves.

I have spoken to a number of merchants and they said they would only be too glad to close their place of business some afternoon during the week, in order to give their employees half holiday during the hot weather. The majority seemed to favor Wednesday afternoons.

So, Mr. Merchant, if a petition is handed you within the next few days, do not turn it down, but sign your name and enjoy a half holiday yourself.

FRENCH RUN MANY TRAINS DURING THE YEAR OF 1915.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

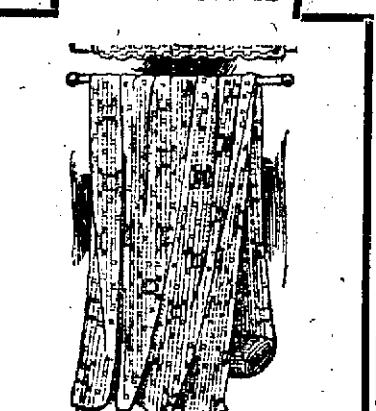

Paris, May 23.—The Paris-Orleans railroad ran 30,000 trains including sanitary express trains for the transportation of wounded during the year 1915, carrying 3,700,000 soldiers, 682,000 horses and 11,000 cannon for the army in addition to its regular traffic, without a single accident. It also moved 485,000 sealed cars of supplies for the army, and made more than a half million shells for the army in its machine shops.

The annual report read before the stockholders' meeting states that the company will have to call upon the government, under the state guarantee, for only 19,368,000 francs. Last year the government had to make good a deficit of 51,000,000 francs. The deficit of 1915 results from increased expenses, mostly high coal.

"My little girl's trouble began with red blotches on her head and matter came out of these blotches which looked like perspiration. They itched and burned and when she scratched them they would bleed and it caused sores to form. They made her very cranky and at night she would keep me awake. The breaking out caused her hair to fall out and her head was disfigured."

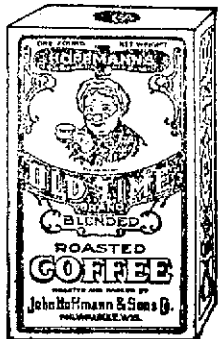

"I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and then bought more. In less than three weeks her head was entirely healed." (Signed) Mrs. C. M. McCrory, 535 Fairview Ave., St. Paul, Minn., July 13, 1915.

STATE BUREAU OF ILLINOIS MAKES INQUIRY ON ATTITUDE OF UNIONS ON SUFFRAGE.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Springfield, Ill., May 23.—Secretary Finley F. Bell, of the Illinois Legislative Reference Bureau, organized by and under control of the state, in a statement just made public summarizes replies to a letter sent by the bureau to national secretaries of labor unions all over the country, asking them for a statement as to their attitude toward woman suffrage. The replies varied in sentiment. Some of the unions favored woman suffrage unqualifiedly, among them being the American Federation of Labor, the United Mine Workers of America and the Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, and the plumbers and steamfitters. Others carried on record as not yet having taken official action but as leaning to endorsement of suffrage. The Western Federation of Miners, though not declaring absolutely for suffrage as their Eastern brethren did, reported that there was a sufficient sentiment in their ranks. The Journeymen Barbers were non-committal and said their organization had never taken the matter up and this also was the attitude of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees' Union and the Bartenders International League. The Postal clerks and the union of leather workers on horse goods were also non-committal, as were men of the American Federation of Musicians.

AGRICULTURAL and GARDEN DEPT

ALLEN B. WEST, Director

Question—Can I raise alfalfa in a ravine?
Answer—That depends on whether your ravine is well drained. If water ever stands in this ravine you cannot raise alfalfa for it will not stand water. If the drainage is good I see no reason why the crop should not succeed. If you are thinking of trying alfalfa by all means join the party going on the alfalfa demonstration tour starting from Janesville May 23rd. On this tour you will see alfalfa growing under various conditions and will be able to obtain authoritative answers to many questions.

Question—What shall I do for ants on my lawn. They have made a large hill two feet across?
Answer—Carbon bisulphide is the best known remedy for the destruction of ants. One or more holes in the nest with a stick or iron bar to the depth of from 1 to 2 feet and pour into each hole 1 or 2 ounces of carbon bisulphide. It is well to cover the nest with a blanket which will aid greatly in confining the fumes. If the area covered by the nest is very large the holes spaced every way and after the close of the day the surface may be thoroughly watered, as the surface prevents the diffusion of the fumes into the air.

Question—People frequently ask me for spraying material and seeing lime sulphur advertised for that purpose I have purchased a quantity of it. Now, because people do not buy it because they do not know how to use it. Will you please tell me some of its possible uses. Does it take the place of Bordeaux mixture or is it an insecticide? Any information you give me will be gratefully received.

Answer—Lime sulphur is an insecticide and a fungicide also. Bordeaux mixture is a fungicide alone but Paris green or arsenate of lead is often added to the Bordeaux for insects. The spraying proportion is one that is done in a haphazard way the compounds very little, either because the wrong material is used or the spraying is done at the wrong time. The Paris green is a very effective insecticide. It has recently issued a bulletin on materials and other insecticides which I recommend for your study. The following is a quotation from this bulletin: Before the application of any material for the control of insects pests it is absolutely necessary to determine how the creature secures its food: (1) Whether by chewing and swallowing portions of its food or (2) by sucking the juices of plants that grow in the beak inserted in the plant tissues. The chewing insects can usually be controlled by poisoning their food at the right time. The sucking insects can be controlled by oily or corrosive contact sprays applied directly to the bodies of the insects.

No stomach poison will reach them. The lime sulphur should be used and spray for sucking insects and also an efficient fungicide, aiding greatly in the control of scab, mildew and certain other fungus diseases. The addition of arsenate of lead to lime sulphur solution will make a preparation for the destruction of both chewing and sucking insects and fungus growths as well. In the apple orchard lime sulphur should be used for a dormant spray early when foliage buds swell, for the destruction of scale insects and the eggs of the apple worm. For curculionids, tank worms, tent caterpillars and cutworms two pounds of dry arsenate of lead should be added. When the blossoms show pink (which time has passed for this year) lime sulphur or Bordeaux may be used in the proportion of one gallon of lime sulphur to 35 gallons of water. In about two weeks lime sulphur should be used with two pounds of arsenate of lead for each acre and this should be repeated about July 25 to Aug. 5 and again two weeks later.

Question—What shall I do to prevent damage to my roses from an insect that eats the flower buds?
Answer—There seems to be but one sure remedy for the rose beetle, which is in question in this case, and that is hand picking. It should be done early in the morning, daily inspection being made. A small vessel partially filled with kerosene should be provided to receive the beetles. They are most often found in the heart of the choicest light colored flowers, grown on sandy soil. It allowed to increase these beetles are very destructive. Paris green will kill them but will also injure the foliage. In case these pests are so numerous that hand picking is impossible, the application of arsenate of lead, 1 pound to 10 gallons of water, is recommended.

The Delavan lake home of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Beckman was the scene of one of the most brilliant affairs ever witnessed by the majority of the many guests assembled on Saturday evening when their daughter, Ebba Theresa, was solemnly united in marriage to Henry Freitag. The wedding march was played by Miss Anna Thybony. The bride's gown was of white embroidered net over white liberty satin. She wore a veil and carried a bridal bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Gertrude Beckman, who was gowned in pink and carried pink sweet peas. Little Bertha Beckman acted as ring bearer and Miss Marie Freitag, sister of the groom, was flower girl. The groom was attended by his friend, Robert Seeling. After the ceremony the party assembled in the Woodlawn Bay hotel where a six-course luncheon was served in the dining room. The tables were profusely decorated with white carnations. Fourteen wedding cakes were served and the bride's cake, cut by her own hands, was a thing of beauty, made in a pyramid effect. After the luncheon the guests repaired to the ball room where dancing was indulged. Mrs. Freitag has lived with her parents here for a number of years and has endeared herself to all. The groom is a member of the firm of Fey, Zihbart & Freitag, besides taking an active interest in the hotel business of his father-in-law. The best of good wishes is extended to the young couple by their many friends. Out of town guests who attended the wedding were the groom's parents and members of the family, from Milwaukee, and many others from Chicago and other places. PAPER COSTS.

"It is not news to newspaper readers in any part of the world that newspaper paper has advanced by leaps and bounds during the last eighteen months, for have not the newspapers of the world with one accord been telling their readers about it with great regularity during the period named?" says the Christian Science Monitor. "In the United States, and of big newspapers, the advance is felt by publishers, and felt keenly, even though the times generally, viewed from the counting room, are good. The cost of print paper has been rising so steadily that loss on circulation has been cutting deeply into the profits on advertising. It is not necessary that one shall be a newspaper publisher in order to see that when the cost of the raw material in the newspaper exceeds the price obtained for it from the distributor, the more papers distributed the greater must be the loss. Many newspapers pay a very small fraction of profit on circulation under the best of conditions. Some of these since the outbreak of the war have seen the margin of profit reduced to the disappearance point. Others see the margin of loss widening to the danger point."

"Hence at the thirtieth annual meeting of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, held in New York within the last few days, the subject of advancing the price of newspapers to readers was gravely considered. This has always been a step which the average newspaper publisher would prefer to avoid. He would rather suffer some loss, as a rule, than take it. Pride in circulation and profit in advertising resulting from circulation are both opposed to increasing the street or subscription selling price. Nevertheless, there must be a limit to the loss which the publisher is willing or able to carry. The burden cannot all be put upon the advertiser. The reader must assume some of it. How much of it the reader will cheerfully assume is the question, for unless he assumes it cheerfully circulation is affected in the cutting down of the number of papers taken at one's home or purchased at news stands or on the streets."

"It is not likely that an advance in the price of any newspaper, if made at all, will be made by a newspaper association; that is a matter which will probably be left entirely to individual publishers; but while the national association was pondering the question in New York, editors and publishers in Pennsylvania were adopting the following:

"Resolved, That the publishers of the daily newspapers throughout this state publicly give notice that unless there be immediate and great material reduction in the present prices of labor, mechanical material and white paper, the time has arrived to change the price of the 1-cent newspaper to 2 cents a copy."

"A great saving might, of course, be made by many daily publications through the reduction of bulk and the elimination of expensive but apparently unwarranted and uncalled-for features. However, this is a phase of the subject that demands fuller treatment than can be given it here. The interesting thing, that out of the conditions that events are creating in these later days many changes are resulting which may have a permanent influence upon the business of newspaper publishing. The one great hope incident to the situation is that if we may not have as many cheap newspapers in the future we may, at least, have better ones."

COMFORT STATIONS.

One Janesville resident who has visited and lived in several cities, many of them of a size considerably larger than Janesville, asks why comfort stations for men and women are not established in the city. This is one of the demands that the ladies of the city federation who seek to establish a civic rest room, hope to supply. It is in fact one of the essential reasons they are so vitally interested in the plan.

True, many of the stores have such rest rooms for their women customers, but are these stores capable of handling the general public? They are a valuable asset to the community and the management of these places of business are to be congratulated on their foresight in establishing them, but a general rest room and comfort station is something this city should have and for which the ladies are now earnestly seeking contributions.

Many cities in the country have them established at convenient corners, in parks and elsewhere. It is a foreign idea, one which is in vogue on the European continent where such things are considered as essential as the creation of stores, restaurants and liquor shops. Gradually the American cities are taking up the idea and they will soon be found in every community.

It is unfortunate that the city is handicapped in not being able to create such a comfort station and rest room on the little plot of ground at the Corn Exchange, but legal entanglements appear to be against it for the present, although if a way can be found to overcome them, Mayor Fathers has stated he would be glad to advocate just such a place.

The proposed rest room will be a boon to the city in many ways than one. It will be an asset and a valuable one that in a short time will be appreciated by every merchant in the city. Where they have been tried out they have been found to be a success, and if good for some other community why not for Janesville?

BY TREATY RIGHT.

A somewhat talented German sympathizer challenges the public to point out the difference in principle between the German occupation of Belgium and the presence of the allies in Greece. The answer is that the Germans are in Belgium in defiance of a treaty to which they were a party, while the allies are at Salonika by treaty right.

This treaty is, in fact, that of 1830, which is the charter of Greek liberty, says the Wall Street Journal. "The three powers which, by moral pressure, secured that liberty for Greece, were England, France and Russia. In the treaty it was expressly stipulated that any one of these powers could in a case of military necessity, send troops into Greece, subject always to the consent of the other two powers."

Up to the present war, there has practically never been a time when any one of the powers could have secured the consent of the others. In the Crimea, in 1856, two of the powers were at war against the third. In the Russian-Turkish war in 1878, England was diplomatically hostile to Russia. But in the present war these three powers find themselves ranged together for the first time in history.

"The German government knows all this well enough, and it will be noticed that the protests against the presence of the allies at Salonika, and the accusation of a likeness to the atrocious crime in Belgium, come not from Berlin, but from the hyphenated American here, who believes that a bad argument is better than none at all, if it gives any color for supporting Germany."

DOMESTIC PETS IN TOWN

A capitalist living in another town announced a few years ago that he would lay out a residence street with special restrictions against keeping domestic pets. He proposed to insert a clause in each deed, forbidding the keeping of dogs and hens. While he would not exclude cats irrevocably, yet he proposed to sell only to persons who would not keep cats, and he would verbally insist not to keep cats. He believed that many people would be attracted to his street.

Many persons think dogs should be kept only on farms. They are irritated by the digging up of gardens, depositing the bones over lawns, and the historic tendency to bark at the moon. They believe the canine has no place in town life unless tied up. The trouble at every town that barks, and telephone their neighbors to shut up the beast before they venture to call.

Hens have long caused neighborhood quarrels. As a town grows in size, they become impossible save in the outskirts. They are a great help in reducing living costs, and many people find egg production diverting and profitable. But it is dreadfully sensitive, modern nerves, if a rooster crows or a hen announces that an egg is laid.

It will probably be some time before there are any dogless or catless towns or even streets. A man from the place first referred to tells us that on the proposed dogless street, no house has as yet been started. Apparently, the anti-dogites are not sure enough of the popularity of their attitude to invest money on it.

Many parents encourage children to needless fear of animals. The sensitive dog sees a cringing look in the eye, and shows his teeth the more ferociously. People who are not afraid are rarely molested.

THE CIRCUS SEASON.

One of the joys of summer for the young people is the visit of the circus. As one looks back on his childhood, the present is apt to stand out about as sharp as any other fact stowed away in memory. It was difficult to sleep the night before the great occasion, and many a youngster has got up several times to see if the stars were out and the morrow would be pleasant.

To childhood the circus is a scene of glory. The tinsel and beads worn by the performers suggest the magnificence of royalty, and the ancient looks of the clowns seem the quintessence of human wit. The roving life of the tent seems the most alluring thing, and most boys long to run away and join the troupe.

These illusions do not survive the years of youth. But it is a pleasure to visit the circus and see the child's eyes snap and shine. That is where the parent gets the value of his admission.

Mexican teachers who have been studying in Boston have been recalled by their government. There is a feeling around here that the principal means of educating Mexico for the next few years will be the gun rather than the spelling book.

After complaining because writing paper has advanced in price, many people will proceed to have a bonfire out in the back yard of every scrap of writing stock they can find after house cleaning.

Anyway, this summer you can comfortably go to a $10 a week summer hotel, without preparing therefor by paying $5.00 a lesson to some dancing teacher.

The muffler cut out on your automobile does not make the machine go much faster, but it calls the attention of the public to the skill and speed of your driving.

Indian day was mostly observed by cultivating the land which the white man took from the red man.

Tablecloth Had Kick Coming.

"I was very much disappointed at dinner last night," said the Tablecloth.

"I simply love currant jelly, and nobody spilled a bit of it on me."

TEXAS CONVENTIONS

BY THREE PARTIES

Democrats Who Pole Two-Thirds of Vote Hold Their Convention in San Antonio.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Dallas, Tex., May 23.—Democratic, Republican and Progressive parties of Texas were holding their state conventions simultaneously today, each having, in addition to the routine of selecting delegates to their respective national conventions, other projects of more or less importance to themselves.

Interest was centered in the Democratic convention being held at San Antonio, Polling 250,000, or more than two-thirds of the state's votes, this party is dominating. The Democrats will elect at the San Antonio convention:

A national committeeman.

Thirty-two district delegates to the national convention.

Eight delegates at large.

Four presidential electors will be nominated then, their names to be placed on the Democratic primary ballot on July 22. Numerous questions of state interest, particularly discussion of Texas' new election laws, also were scheduled to come before the convention.

The Progressive party held its convention in Waco. This party will nominate four presidential electors and elect twenty-four delegates to the national convention, based on one for each of the sixteen congressional districts; and two for each United States senator and representative-at-large.

Republicans were holding their convention in Fort Worth, with practically the same business before them.

Progressives. They are to nominate four electors and twenty-six delegates to the national convention, having two more than the Progressives.

Attempts to effect a fusion between the Progressives and Republicans, which have prevailed for the past two years, were brought to an end by the death early in April of Cecil A. Lyon, Progressive national committeeman from Texas. Several "got together" meetings between Republican and Progressive leaders were held at various times but when the movement was reaching a climax Mr. Lyon's illness halted proceedings.

Today's Democratic convention is the first of two, the second being held in August to officially canvass the names of the July primaries. Nomination in these elections has, customarily, meant virtual election on account of lack of opposition to the Democratic party.

It was generally predicted in political circles that the Texas convention would be instructed for the re-nomination of Woodrow Wilson. As yet there has been no public announcement as to who will be favored for the presidential nomination by either the Progressive or Republican parties in Texas.

Texas delegations will not be bound by the unit rule.

ALLIED NATION TRYING TO BUY SCOUT CRUISERS FROM MILWAUKEE COMPANY.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 23.—The allied nations of Europe have been negotiating with the Great Lake Boat Building corporation of this city to purchase fifty-foot anti-submarine scout cruisers which that company is now manufacturing.

The boats are built so that they can be used as a pleasure yacht and in time of war they can be converted into scout boats.

So far the concern has refused to sell boats to the European nations according to J. H. Broughton, manager of "We will build boats for the European nations but will place our entire output at the disposal of the United States government in event the service is desired," said Broughton.

"I've got to go to Mexico. For fighting Freddie says it's so; I've got to fight with my might. So the stars and stripes may blow. Look when us boys see yer that's why I've got to go to Mexico; I'm going to say goodbye."

Fighting Freddie is Maj.-Gen. Frederick Funston.

Probably Had To.

"Well," said the doctor, "you're cured at last. How do you feel?" "I feel," said the patient, looking at his wallet sadly, "I feel as if I could start life all over again."

The Portrait.

My lightning bills were far too high. But after many spats and fights, I planted some electric bulbs.

And raised my own electric lights.

(Synopsis of preceding chapters: Dan Forecase, a famous young portrait painter, is scornfully told by Lillian Piffs, beautiful and haughty daughter of old man Piffs, the half boss king, that she will marry him only when he has succeeded in painting a portrait of her father as life-like that she will be unable to distinguish the portrait from the original. Dan sets out to do the portrait. But his task calls for certain rare and powerful colors for which Dan journeys to the far corners of the globe, having many adventures and hair breadth escapes, especially in chapters 546 558, and 612. In the Bushmeyer Sea he kills a ginky fish and extracts the precious ginky blue from its gills; in the Straits of Flanagan he brings down a straitshemer bird, from the scoldippe sac of which he procures four drops of straitshemer yellow; and he kills a giant stimpie ape in a hand-to-hand struggle, thus procuring a tubful of the wonderful striddle green to be found only in the syden-hum ducts of these animals. Then he returned home and with the aid of his hard-worn colors, painted so life-like a portrait of old man Piffs, that old man Piffs when looking at it, had to make faces to convince himself that he wasn't looking in a mirror. Dan married the haughty Lillian, and one day, while they were at home with their feet up, old man Piffs rushed in with his portrait and flung it down at Dan's feet. Chapter 597.

"Take back your old portrait!" bawled old man Piffs. "I don't want no portrait that's so darn natural it has to be shaved twice a week!"

Would he return to the condition his mouth was in before I treated him for pyorrhea.

So said one of my former patients to me yesterday.

Most of my patients tell me their General Health improves right from the first treatment I give them.

If your gums bleed easily and you have a bad taste from around your teeth, you probably need a course of treatment to stop the sure advance of this disease.

It will rob you of every tooth in your head if you neglect it.

TWENTY-FIVE CARS GO ON ALFALFA CAMPAIGN

GREAT DEMONSTRATION TODAY THROUGHOUT ROCK COUNTY—ENTHUSIASM OF THE FARMERS HIGH.

125 FARMERS ON TRIP

Excellent Weather and Roads and Concrete Illustrations of Crop Success.

Today is Alfalfa Day.

Rock county farmers over one hundred and twenty-five strong this morning started on one of the greatest county wide demonstrations ever held. They spent the day to see the practical side of alfalfa cultivation and to have demonstrated to them that Rock county soil is as fertile and productive as any other single county where, during the past few years, alfalfa has become the premier forage crop.

Twenty-five automobiles, twenty from Janesville and five from Beloit, left here at 9 o'clock this morning. L. F. Graeber, secretary of the Wisconsin Alfalfa League, will give the demonstrations in the alfalfa fields and give the practical talks, with the party. "This is the finest turnout I have ever witnessed," said Mr. Graeber, "and it is a fine thing to see a similar demonstration in Walworth county. It has already proved its worth and I am sure that this trip and the demonstrations will make to-day will soon be realized in every county, which now has about 600 acres of alfalfa under cultivation. The Walworth county acreage this year is more than double the total of that previous to the campaign and has increased over there. Like Rock county farmers, they thought that their soil was not so good, and that is our purpose today, to show farmers in this county that alfalfa can be grown here. There is absolutely no reason why it cannot. The acidity of the soil can be eliminated and today we will show how."

Mr. Graeber was elated with the large gathering. Weather conditions were ideal. The sun was bright and warm and it was expected that the tourists would have no trouble with dust. The rains have hardened the county roads and put them in tip-top shape.

Edward Greenberg of the farm implement firm of Johnson & Greenberg, of Beloit, suffered the first accident of the trip, even before the start had been made from this city. With the party each car had a driver and a photographer had lined up the machines on West Milwaukee street to get a picture. Greenberg was maneuvering the car in front of the line in some manner lost control of the wheel. The car shot to the side of the road and mounted the curb. The axle had been broken, but before this was discovered the big party had gone, leaving Greenberg and his party marooned in this city. Mrs. A. P. Loyjoy was reached on the telephone and donated her machine for the stranded Beloiters.

The first stop was at the Will Henke farm, about three or four miles east of Janesville, on the Milwaukee road. There were both old and new fields here, the first on the side of the road, having been cultivated for seven or eight years. The demonstration at the Henke farm showed winter killing and the effects of early cutting. The second stop was at the Will Henke farm, on J. R. Hadden's, which is just off the wide rolling prairie land, Rock Prairie. While geological conditions are somewhat different at the Hadden place, it was brought out that the soil of the prairie is of the same nature as that on which Mr. Hadden grows his forage crop and that it is possible to successfully cultivate alfalfa on Rock Prairie.

The party then went south to Emerald Grove and visited a field there. At Clinton they took dinner and visited two farms in this vicinity, the C. J. Furset farm and that of Forrest Kemmerer were also visited.

The last stop was at the W. J. Dougan farm, Beloit, to visit at the Dougan farm, where Mr. Dougan has had exceptional success in the cultivation of the crop under scientific methods, and here some very interesting experiments were made, including the demonstration of an alfalfa seeder.

EXPECT TO IMPROVE APPRENTICE SYSTEM

Industrial Commission Plans to Co-operate With Continuation Schools to Train Workers.

Stewart Schrimshaw, supervisor of apprenticeship of the industrial commission of Wisconsin, and Mr. Hill, principal of the local industrial school, have been consulting with Janesville employers on the matter of apprenticeship. Industry is now feeling very keenly the lack of trained mechanics and a movement is now under way throughout the state, and even the nation, to train workmen in the industries. The metal industry of the country employs about 5,000,000 men, but few of them are apprentices. In the past, mechanics have come largely from Europe, but now conditions have changed. Unless American industries have mechanics for the future we shall face a bankruptcy of skill in this country.

Chapter 165, Laws of Wisconsin, 1915, was passed to aid in the development of the industrial school system. This law requires that all learners of trades over sixteen must be put under written contract, which shall be filed with the industrial commission. Up to the age of eighteen the apprentice must attend school five hours per week to get instruction in the theoretical side of the trade.

Employers all over the state are co-operating with the industrial commission to make apprenticeship a success in this state. Mr. Schrimshaw expressed a hope that the fact that he believed Janesville would be a share in making first-class mechanics. Mr. Hill, director of the continuation school, is ready at any time to confer with employers on the matter of apprenticeship and will supply the forms which are furnished by the commission for the purpose of indenturing of workers.

"Sound business must provide for depreciation in skill just the same as it allow for depreciation of the physical plant," Mr. Schrimshaw says, "and the state is assisting the employers to work out the solution."

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

OF DAISY DEAN

During the past year or two Fania Marinoff has become well known to the motion picture public, having appeared in several big features made by well known companies. Her greater fame rests, however, upon her work in the "legit" with such famous plays as "The House Next Door," "Within the Law," "Consequences," and "The Law." Many of her appearances in this country have been made in Oriental and Slavic characters, which suit her exotic personality and eastern type of beauty. She is a true Russian, having been born in Odessa about twenty years ago.

G. BERNARD SHAW ON THE CENSORS. G. Bernard Shaw, who has written much in condemnation of censorship of the stage in England, has something to say about movie censorship.

"The danger of the cinema," says Shaw, "is not the danger of immorality, but of morality."

"People, who, like myself, frequent the cinema, testify to their deplorable romantic morality. There is no comedy, no wit, no criticism of morals, no ridicule or otherwise, no exposure of the unpleasant consequences of romantic sentimentality and reckless tomfoolery in real life, nothing that could give a disagreeable shock to the stupid or shake the self-complacency of the smug. The leveling down has been thoroughly accomplished."

"EXTRA GIRL" MAKES GOOD. Another of those hard working "extra girls" who haunt the film offices until they either make good or tire, Ethel Burke by name, has just been made a member of a stock company after two months of perseverance.

Miss Burke left school, decided to go into pictures, secured several days' work as an extra girl, which means that she was one of many of the mob that went to the "Pig-Tail Alley." Director Emile Chautard was attracted by the expression on Ethel's face. Result—Ethel is now steadily at work and will get her first chance to show what she is capable of in support of Robert Warwick in "Friday the 13th."

AT BEVERLY THEATRE.

William Farnum Tonight. William Farnum, who appears in a dual role in "The Wonderful Adventure," a new William Fox feature from Fania Marinoff. She has left screen for the present and returned to her first love, the legitimate stage. She is now taking part in the Shakespearean revival in New York city.

Arrangements are going forward for the production of "Romeo and Juliet" with an all-star cast. The part of Romeo will probably be played by one of the following: House Peters, Robert Warwick, Carlyle Blackwell, or Holbrook Blinn, while for Juliet, the company can take its pick from Gail Kane, Alice Brady, Kitty Gordon, Jane Grey, Ethel Clayton, Gerda Holmes or Clara Kimball Young.

Two beautiful and clever children, William and Ethel Stewart, are appearing with Theda Bara in a new photoplay. This is their first appearance.

the virile pen of Captain Wilbur Lawton, at the Beverly tonight, is America's favorite screen artist and matinee idol of the day.

In "The Wonderful Adventure" Mr. Farnum can be said to be at his best in character portrayal. In this magnificent feature picture he plays a dual part. He is in one character a rough and rugged man of the plains whose life has been cast in rough and thorny places, and in the other character he is a well-to-do business man, who stands high in the community, whose home life is ideal and happy. In the character of the rough man he becomes a dope fiend, and he acts out and acts upon the screen the awful sufferings and tortures that make up the life of one cursed with the drug habit.

"THE NE'ER-DO-WELL" OUTSTRIPS "THE SPOILERS."

This photoplay, which will be shown at the Beverly theatre Wednesday and Thursday, is considered the successor to "The Spoilers." Both stories were written by Rex Beach, produced by the same director, and enacted by the same stars that appeared in "The Spoilers," which makes the production extraordinary in every detail.

"The Ne'er-Do-Well" does not contain a dull moment. There are hand-to-hand conflicts, a great fire, beautiful tropical scenery, and the old nooks and corners of old Panama in all their quaint picturesqueness.

An all-star cast, including Kathlyn Williams and Wheeler Oakman, together with genuine Panama atmosphere, combine to make "The Ne'er-Do-Well" the greatest film drama ever presented.

"The Ne'er-Do-Well," perhaps, is one of the best-read books of Rex Beach.

This picture, though its character and locale are different from "The Spoilers," is every bit as equally a favorite film story.

The film is in ten acts, and every foot holds one interested. Special mention should be made of the attractiveness of the picture.

AT THE APOLLO.

Mary Pickford Tonight in "Madame Butterfly."

A new and hitherto unsuspected Mary Pickford is revealed in the Cho-Ohe-San which she admirably plays in the Famous Players Film Company's magnificent photoplay version of John Luther Long's classic, "Madame Butterfly," which is the Paramount picture at the Apollo tonight. The great mass of admirers of Mary Pickford who have followed her throughout her motion picture career have been accustomed to see their favorite as a little blonde curly-headed beauty will be surprised to find her a thorough Oriental. It is not a matter of race alone, but of real histrionic ability. From the delightful little accidental girl who has flirted, smiled and wept her way through many adventures and romances, they found that Miss Pickford had become an entrancing, powerfully emotional Japanese girl whose portrayal of the sufferings, grief and anguish of the deserted wife, though enacted with the utmost dignity and force, is at the same time far above anything that she has ever attempted in sympathetic treatment.

AT THE APOLLO.

Fannie Ward in "For the Defense." No star of the legitimate stage, who has entered in the great field of photoplay acting, has achieved within a short time the extraordinary success that has come to Fannie Ward, the famous American comedienne. She is now the star in the Paramount picture, "For the Defense," produced by Jesse L. Lasky and to be shown at the Apollo on Wednesday. This will mark Miss Ward's fourth Lasky production. Her first was the comedy photoplay, "The Marriage of Kitty," and then in succession followed "The Cheat," the sensation of the year; "Tennessee's Partner," and now "For the Defense." In this production Miss Ward will appear as a pretty French girl who, coming to this country as a stranger, is suddenly thrown into the midst of a great tragedy. By an accident she becomes the sole witness to a murder for which a young man, unknown to her until he later assists her, is accused. When this man, who has kept secret from her his true identity, is accused of crime, none but the little French girl is able to prove his innocence. The scenes of "For the Defense" are laid in New York and in the beautiful west. It is a story of great suspense from beginning to end.

CHILD OF LOCAL COUPLE IN FILM

Infant Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Korst Plays Leading Role in Picture Play.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest B. Korst, formerly of this city, will be interested in a photoplay which will be shown at the Apollo on Thursday in which their infant daughter plays a very important role. Mrs. Korst it will be remembered was Miss Edna Bladon.

January, when the World Film company was producing "The Social Highwayman" in St. Augustine, Florida, the charming little infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Korst caught the attention of the director, who persuaded its parents to allow her to become one of its cast. The baby was therefore used to represent the title role at the time of birth.

This character is taken in the successive stages by Arthur Pleasant, Raymond Hackett, and finally by the star of the play, Edwin August, who was also director. The story of "The Social Highwayman" is that of Curtis Jaffray, whose boy ideal is Claude DuVal, who stole from the rich to give to the poor. Curtis was the offspring of a mesalliance which resulted in his being brought up in such bitter poverty that his mother, before his birth, was given to thieves, to obtain food. When Curtis reached the age of twelve the parents were killed in a fire, and he was left to be inherited through pre-natal influences a tendency to steal. How in later years, when he inherited the title and estates of his grandfather, he has inherited through pre-natal influences a tendency to steal. How in later years, when he inherited the title and estates of his grandfather, he has inherited through pre-natal influences a tendency to steal. How in later years, when he inherited the title and estates of his grandfather, he has inherited through pre-natal influences a tendency to steal.

Woman Tells A Pleasing Story

Mrs. Johnson Relates How She Regained Health and Energy by Using Tanlac.

Mrs. C. Johnson, of 59 Central avenue, Oshkosh, a widely known and popular woman, states that use of Tanlac, the new medicine has relieved her of nervousness and has built her up after a general breakdown. This is what she said recently:

"I was sick all during the past winter and became so run down and nervous and weak that I had what amounted to a general breakdown. I was all upset. I was so nervous that I could not stand the least excitement of any kind. Any sudden noise would startle me and upset me. I was very restless and at nights I could hardly sleep at all. I lost energy and strength and felt listless all the time, and was too tired to move. My digestion became badly impaired and my appetite was very poor. I was in a very bad condition.

"Tanalac was recommended to me a short time ago and I started taking it. I have now been using the medicine about two weeks and feel a great deal better. My appetite has returned and my digestion has improved wonderfully. My nerves are in good shape and I sleep well every night. I am not nearly so restless now. I have lots of energy and my strength has increased greatly. I always have a good word to say for Tanlac."

Tanalac may be obtained here at Smith's Drug Store.

The TURMOIL

A Novel By
BOOTH TARKINGTON

Author of
"Monsieur Beaucaire," "The Conquest of Canaan," "Penrod," etc.

Copyright 1914 by Harper & Brothers
"Yes," he said. "I won't come into the smoking room again. I'm sorry, Edith. Nobody can make you see anything now. You'll never see until you see for yourself. The rest of us will do better to keep out of it—especially me."

"That's sensible," she responded, curtly. "You're most surprising of all when you're sensible, Bibbs."

"Yes," he sighed. "I'm a dull dog. Shake hands and forgive me, Edith." Thawing so far as to smile, she underwent this brief ceremony, and George appeared, summoning Bibbs to the library. Doctor Gurney was waiting there, he announced. And Bibbs gave his sister a shy but friendly touch upon the shoulder as a complement to the handshaking, and left her.

Doctor Gurney was sitting by the log fire, alone in the room, and he merely glanced over his shoulder when his patient came in. He was not over fifty, in spite of Sheridan's habitual "ole Don Gurney." He was gray, however, almost as thin as Bibbs, and nearly always he looked drowsy.

"Your father telephoned me yesterday afternoon, Bibbs," he said, not rising. "Wants me to 'look you over' again. Come around here in front of me—between me and the fire. I want to see if I can see through you."

"You mean you're too sleepy to move," returned Bibbs, complying. "I think you'll notice that I'm getting worse."

"Taken on about twelve pounds," said Gurney. "Thirteen, maybe."

"Well, it won't do." The doctor rubbed his eyelids. "You're so much better I'll have to use some machinery on you before we can know just where you are. You come down to my place this afternoon. Walk down—all the way. I suppose you know why your father wants to know."

Bibbs nodded. "Machine shop."

"Still hate it?"

Bibbs nodded again.

"Don't blame you!" the doctor grunted. "Yes, I expect it'll make a lump in your gizzard again. Well, what do you say? Shall I tell him you've got the old lump there yet? You still want to write, do you?"

"What's the use?" Bibbs said, smiling ruefully. "My kind of writing?"

"Yes," the doctor agreed. "I suppose if you broke away and lived on roots and berries until you began to 'attract the favorable attention of editors' you might be able to hope for an income of four or five hundred dollars a year by the time you're fifty."

"That's about it," Bibbs murmured. "Of course I know what you want to do," said Gurney, drowsily. "You don't hate the machine shop only; you hate the whole show—the noise and jar and dirt, the scramble—the whole bloomin' craze to 'get on.' You'd like to go somewhere in Aiglers, or to Normina, perhaps, and bask on a balcony, smelling flowers and writing sonnets. You'd grow fat on it and have a delicate little life all to yourself. Well, what do you say? I can like like sixty. Bibbs! Shall I tell your father he'll lose another of his boys if you don't go to Sicily?"

"I don't want to go to Sicily," said Bibbs. "I want to stay right here."

The doctor's drowsiness disappeared for a moment, and he gave his patient a sharp glance. "It's a risk," he said. "I think we'll find you're so much better he'll send you back to the shop pretty quick. Something's got hold of you lately; you're not quite so lackadaisical as you used to be. But I warn you: I think the shop will knock you just as it did before, and perhaps ever harder, Bibbs."

He rose, shook himself, and rubbed his eyelids. "Well, when we go over you this afternoon what are we going to say about it?"

"Tell him I'm ready," said Bibbs, looking at the door.

"Oh no," Gurney laughed. "Not quite yet; but you may be almost. We'll see. Don't forget I said to walk down."

And when the examination was concluded, that afternoon, the doctor informed Bibbs that the result was much too satisfactory to be pleasing. "Here's a new 'situation' for a one-act farce," he said, solemnly, to his next patient when Bibbs had gone. "Doctor tells a man he's well, and that's his death sentence, likely. Dam' funny world!"

Bibbs decided to walk home. It was a dingy afternoon, and the smoke was evident not only to Bibbs' sight, but to his nostrils, though most of the pedestrians were so saturated with the smell that they could no longer detect it. This incited a train of thought which continued till he approached the new house. As he came to the corner of Mr. Vertrees' lot Mr. Vertrees' daughter emerged from the front door and walked thoughtfully down the path to the picket gate. She was unconscious of the approach of the pedestrian and did not see him until she had opened the gate and he was almost beside her. Then she looked up, and as she saw him she started visibly. And if this thing had happened to Robert Lamhorn, he would have had a thought far beyond the horizon of faint-hearted Bibbs' thoughts. Lamhorn, indeed, would have spoken his thought. He would have said:

"You jumped because you were thinking of me?"

CHAPTER XIV.

Mary was the picture of a lady flustered. Bibbs had paused in his slow stride, and there elapsed an instant before either spoke or moved—it was no longer than that, and yet it sufficed for each to seem to say, by look and attitude, "Why, it's you!"

Then they both spoke at once, each hurriedly pronouncing the other's name as if about to deliver a message of importance. Then both came to a stop simultaneously, but Bibbs made a heroic effort, and as they began to walk on together he contrived to find his voice.

"I—I—b—ate a frozen fish myself," he said. "I think three miles was too long for you to put up with one."

"Good gracious!" she cried, turning to him a glowing face from which restraint and embarrassment had suddenly fled. "Mr. Sheridan, you're lovely to put it that way. It was an imposition for me to have made you bring me home, and after I went into the house I decided I should have walked. Besides, it wasn't three miles to the car line. I never thought of it."

"No," said Bibbs, earnestly. "I didn't, either. I might have said something if I'd thought of anything. I'm talking now, though; I must remember that, and not worry about it later. I think I'm talking, though it doesn't sound intelligent even to me. I made up my mind that if I ever met you again I'd turn on my voice and keep it going, no matter what it said. I—"

She interrupted him with laughter, and Mary Vertrees' laugh was one which Bibbs' father had declared, after the house-warming, "a cripple would crawl five miles to hear." And at the merry lifting of it Bibbs' father's son took heart to forget some of his trepidation. "I'll be any kind of idiot," he said, "if you'll laugh at me some more. It won't be difficult for me."

She said: and Bibbs' cheeks showed a little actual color, which Mary perceived. They had passed the new house without either of them showing—or possessing—any consciousness that it had been the destination of one of them.

"I'll keep on talking," Bibbs continued, cheerfully, "and you keep on laughing. I'm amounting to something in the world this afternoon. I'm making a noise, and that makes you make music. Don't be bothered by my bleating out such things as that. I'm really frightened. I don't remember talking as much as this more than once or twice in my life. I suppose it was always in me to do it, though, the first time I met anyone who didn't know me well enough not to listen."

"But you're not really talking to me," said Mary. "You're just thinking aloud."

"No," he returned, gravely. "I'm not thinking at all; I'm only making vocal sounds. I seem to be the subject of what little meaning they possess, and I'd like to change it, but I don't know how to manage it."

"You needn't change the subject on my account, Mr. Sheridan," she said. "Not even if you really talked about yourself." She turned her face toward him as she spoke, and Bibbs caught his breath; he was pathetically amazed by the look she gave him. It was a glowing look, warmly friendly and understanding, and what almost shocked him, it was an eagerly interested look. Bibbs was not accustomed to anything like that.

"I—y—o—h—I—m—" he stammered, and the faint color in his cheeks grew almost vivid.

She was still looking at him, and she saw the strange radiance that came into his face. There was something about him, too, that explained how "queer" many people might think him; but he did not seem "queer" to Mary Vertrees; he seemed the most quaintly natural person she had ever met.

He waited, and became coherent. "You say something now," he said. "I don't even belong in the chorus, and here I am, trying to sing the funny man's solo! You—"

"No," she interrupted. "I'd rather play your accompaniment."

"I'll stop and listen to it, then."

"Perhaps—" she began, but after pausing thoughtfully she made a gesture with her muff, indicating a large brick church which they were approaching. "Do you see that church, Mr. Sheridan?"

"I suppose I could," he answered in simple truthfulness, looking at her. "But I don't want to. I have a feeling it's where you're going, and where I'll be sent back."

She shook her head in cheery negation. "Not unless you want to be. Would you like to come with me?"

"Why—why—yes," he said. "Anywhere." And again it was apparent that he spoke in simple truthfulness.

"Then come—if you care for organ music. The organist is an old friend of mine, and sometimes he plays for me. He's a dear old man. That's he, waiting in the doorway. He looks like Beethoven, doesn't he? I think he knows that, perhaps, and enjoys it a little. I hope so."

"Yes," said Bibbs, as they reached the church steps. "I think Beethoven would like it, too. It must be pleasant to look like other people."

"I haven't kept you?" Mary said to the organist. "This is Mr. Sheridan, Doctor Kraft. He has come to listen with me."

The organist looked bluntly surprised. "Is that so?" he exclaimed. "He is musician himself, of course."

"No," said Bibbs, as the three entered the church together. "I—I played the—I tried to play—"

Fortunately he checked himself; he had been about to offer the information that he had failed to master the jew's harp in his boyhood. "No, I'm not a musician," he contented himself with saying.

"What?" Doctor Kraft's surprise increased. "Young man, you are fortunate! I play for Miss Vertrees; she comes always alone. You are the first. You are the first one ever!"

They had reached the head of the central aisle, and as the organist finished speaking Bibbs stopped short, turning to look at Mary Vertrees in a dazed way that was not of her perceiving; for, though she stopped as he did, her gaze followed the organist, who was walking away from them toward the front of the church, shaking his white Beethovenian mane vigorously.

"It's false pretenses on my part," Bibbs said. "You mean to be kind to the sick, but I'm not an invalid any more. I'm so well I'm going back to work in a few days. I'd better leave before he begins to play, hadn't I?"

"No," said Mary, beginning to walk forward. "Not unless you don't like great music."

He followed her to a seat about half way up the aisle while Doctor Kraft ascended to the organ. "This afternoon some Handel!" he turned to shout.

Mary nodded. "Will you like that?" she asked Bibbs.

"I don't know. I never heard any except 'Largo.' I don't know anything about music. I don't even know how to pretend I do. If I knew enough to pretend, I would."

"No," said Mary, looking at him and smiling faintly. "You wouldn't."

She turned away as a great sound began to swim and tremble in the air; the huge empty space of the church filled with it, and the two people listening seemed to fill and thrill with it. The two sat intensely still, the great sound all round about them, while the church grew dusky, and only the organist's lamp made a tiny star of light. His white head moved from side to side beneath it rhythmically, or lurched and recovered with the fierceness of a duelist thrusting, but he was magnificent, the master of his giant, and it sang to his magic as he bade it.

Man Who Sticks, Wins.

It is hard to stay on and work and stick, when things seem to go wrong; but we have found that is just the way to make things go right.

"Sure Enough! It's Actually Growing Your Hair!"

THE gentleman here with the bald head has been bald for a good many years.

The more hair treatments he used the bolder he grew. Then he quit. You couldn't make him believe that hair could be made to grow on a bald spot any more than on a stone.

One day a friend of his showed him a hair-restorer under a microscope. A drop of alcohol had been applied to the hair-root. It had shriveled up like a dried apple.

Alcohol in Tonics Kills Hair

Then Mr. Baldhead realized that all the hair treatments he had been using for years contained from 30 per cent to 50 per cent alcohol. As a hair murderer, he had been a beautiful success. Then he quit.

One of the greatest hair discoveries of the age has been made. Hair can be made to grow as surely and positively as plants can be made to grow by fertilization of the soil.

Discovery is Vola-Vita.

Hair has now been analyzed and found to contain five principal elements. When any one or more of these elements are missing or scarce, the hair-roots lose their vitality, hair falls out, dandruff may form, thin spots appear, the hair turns gray, and baldness is always the result.

When these elements are restored the hair is compelled to grow. Vola-Vita supplies these elements to hair and scalp tissue. It is used in a short time gives positive results. It isn't imagination, because you actually see these results. Use it on your bald or thin-haired spot and you will soon see real, new "fuzz" growing. Dandruff will disappear absolutely. Itching will stop. If your hair is gray, and was originally brown, your hair will become brown. If your hair is gray and was originally red, it will become red.

Vola-Vita brings back the exact original color of your hair. For this reason it is not a dye. And Vola-Vita contains no alcohol to kill your hair. It is different from all other hair treatments ever known. You can now grow hair and stop your hair and scalp troubles as you never could before. And you'll look years younger, too, with your hair brought back to its original youthful color. Begin today.

Vola-Vita is sold at all drug stores for $1.00 a bottle or sent direct by the Vola-Vita Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill. Satisfaction guaranteed.

Sold in Janesville by J. P. Baker, People's Drug Co., Smith Drug Co., Badger Drug Co., Rod Cross Pharmacy, W. T. Sherer, McGug & Suss.

Will Verify Statement

Mr. Philip Gelber, 545 Bushwick Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., will verify to anyone interested his endorsement of Fruitola and Traxo. In writing to the Pinus laboratories Mr. Gelber says:

"I suffered with gall-stones seven years—tried various remedies without satisfactory result—was induced to try Fruitola and Traxo. Glad to say I am now feeling better than at any time for years and heartily recommend Fruitola and Traxo."

Fruitola acts on the intestinal organs as a powerful lubricant—softening the congested masses, disintegrating the hardened particles that cause so much suffering and expelling the accumulation with almost instant relief. Traxo is a tonic-alterative acting on the liver and stomach, and is especially recommended in connection with Fruitola to build up and restore the weakened run-down system.

For the convenience of the public, arrangements have been made to supply Fruitola and Traxo through representative druggists. In Janesville they can be obtained at J. P. Baker, 423 West Milwaukee St.

An American gentleman got acquainted with a Frenchman who was very anxious to acquire the English language. The American in order to help him said that if he would send his exercises to him he would gladly correct them.

Nothing was heard from the Frenchman for some time, but finally a letter came couched in the following choice English:

In small time I can learn so many English from the textbook and her dictionary as I think I will come at the America and to go on the scaffold to lecture."

A certain editor recently received from a lady some verses, daintily tied up with pink ribbon, and entitled, "Wonder if He'll Miss Me?"

After reading them, he returned the effort to the sender with the following note:

The lecture given by Dr. Eaton at the Methodist church Sunday evening drew a large sized audience despite the threatening weather. The doctor used for his subject, "God's Universe." He is well known as a powerful and popular preacher and lecturer having been greatly in demand at Chautauques where he has been an attraction for years. He has also been the extension division teacher and lecturer in Astronomy at the University of Wisconsin. The lecture was illustrated with lantern slides. The people of Edgerton accordingly fortunate to be permitted to hear his lecture.

TODAY'S BEAUTY HINT

It is not necessary to shampoo quite so frequently if your hair is properly cleaned each time by use of a really good shampoo. The easiest to use and quickest drying shampoo that we can recommend to our readers may be prepared very cheaply by dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox, obtained from your druggist, in a cup of hot water. This rubbed into the scalp creates a thick lather, soothing and cooling in its action, as well as beneficial to scalp and hair. After rinsing the scalp is fresh and clean, while the hair dries quickly and evenly, developing a bright luster and a soft fluffiness that makes it seem very heavy.—Advertisement.

Find Strength in Nature.

When I would recreate myself I seek the darkest wood, the thickest and most interminable and, to the citizen, most dismal swamp. I enter a swamp as a sacred place. There is the strength, the marrow of nature. The wildwood covers the virgin mold—and the same soil is good for men and for trees.—Thoreau.

WASHINGTON LEADS AMERICAN LEAGUE

Sentors Beat Sox While Philadelphia Beats Cleveland—Base Running by Pitcher Loses Cub Game.

The lead changed in the American league Monday when Washington beat the Sox at Washington, pushing them into the cellar, while Philadelphia was wallowing Cleveland, 10 to 8.

The Sox may be due for a severe shake-up that may include Manager Howland. Chicago papers announce this morning. The stride of the Sox straight to first place is not due to a slump, for the downward pace has been too long-lived for that. The players, rated as stars, have not displayed the light or the spirit to win, and have fallen way down from their usual pace. The Sox lost the game to Washington through errors as Wolfgang and Russell pitched good enough ball for any team to win. Eddie Collins dropped a throw at second base in the second inning, which allowed the first run to score. The Sox, in losing Wolfgang made a wild peg to first that allowed the second run.

Griffith's team played like champions. Every man on the team had his head up, alert, and every play, and they wasted no time in getting the runs.

Hard hitting in the first and eighth innings gave Philadelphia the game over Cleveland, knocking them from first place. Three home runs were made during the game.

The two pitchers in the Cubs-Phillies game played the main part in winning, and losing the game. Alexander the Great, was having for the Phillies, and with Hendrix had a stellar slugging duel until the fifth inning. Alexander got on first and had to great second on a hit-and-run play that went wrong. This exertion got Alexander in bad as Hendrix got a two-base blow that in the eighth scored three runs. The exertion by Hendrix proved too much for him also as the Quakers got two runs and clinched the game in an inning later with three runs.

John McGraw once said the Pirates were a three-hit-on-run club. His attention is called to this exhibition of Jimmy Callahan's crew. Knabe doubled, Schmidt tried to bunt him to third, missed the ball and Knabe was thrown out at third; Schmidt singled and was thrown out trying to steal; three singles in a row followed—and one run was scored. That's four singles and a two-bagger to over one run. In the same game the Pirates had a man on third with none out once and men on third with but one out twice—and couldn't score. Jim Callahan sure is getting results out of his system of play.

Les Darcy and George K. O. Brown of Chicago were telling each other how good they were recently and Brown tried to get Darcy to make a little wager on the outcome of their next battle. Brown offered to bet $250 that Darcy would not tip him over in the next twenty round contest in which they will be principals, and $250 that he would. Darcy, who respects the Chicago boys' ability to take punishment, replied: "You've got the letters K. O. before your name. Suppose that you live up to it and do the thing that you ask me to do. You know very well that a man who wagers that he will knock another down or put him away is a fool. If he accomplishes what he's lucky at best. Thank you, but I won't bet."

They say Jimmy Wilde is coming to pay us a visit and incidentally to show us what a great boxer he is. Wilde is the lanky Welsh boy who looks like a clotheshorse and hits like a Joe Walcott. The question is, whom is Jimmy going to box? He is so light in weight that it will be almost impossible to find a worthy opponent for him. He seldom weighs over 110 lbs., and he is bound to bump up against the commission rule which says that the smaller men shall not give away weight.

Larney Lichtenstein, manager of Ad Wolgast, announces from Salt Lake City that he has discovered a new heavyweight phenom who battles under the name of Jack Dempsey. Larney insists that the new hope is almost as fast as his great namesake who startled the lightweight world a few years ago. He is only twenty years old, weighs 175 pounds, and stands over six feet in his stockings.

Harry Coveleskie of the Tigers has been experimenting with a new slow ball. But so far Harry's been getting a warm reception. He tried it out on the Mackmen in their series and the House of Connie slammed it every time. He hasn't learned to hide it in delivery so it's a cinch to pick off.

It being agreed that Ed Walsh is done as a pitcher he is now endeavoring to secure a place as a minor league umpire, with the idea of drilling himself for work in the American league. Walsh umpired a number of games on the White Sox exhibition tour in spring and looked like a real arbiter.

Ted Meredith, great middle distance runner and a writer, too, has the right dope on himself. Discussing the Cornell-Pennsylvania track meet recently Meredith said that if the day and track were o. k. he would drop out of the quarter-mile race for Penn and go into the half-mile to set a new world's record. The day and track turned out o. k.—and Ted hung up the record.

Frank Daviggia, aged fifteen, right-hander, is leading all comers in the St. Louis public school championship race. In four games Daviggia has fanned 78 batters, or 19 pr game. He has also pitched 16 perfect games in 17 times up for an average of .941.

The death of * * * * * Cassignol, the French expert, has caused a big change in the plans for professional billiards next fall. It is now practically certain that there will be no 18.2 ball game tournament to put in play another championship emblem.

Fritz Haisel's brother has been canned by the Detroit club, which indicates Fritz's brother didn't get an either break when the baseball talent was distributed in the Maisel family.

Connie Mack, according to report from Philadelphia, has plans for making an outfielder out of Babe Frasier. He is practicing in the outfield daily, learning to catch flies and run down hits.

The batting of Amos Strunk is one of the features of the Athletics' games. Amos has caught the new spirit and is doing his best to help the Long fellow back into baseball's select company.

Manager Billy Hamilton of Worcester is blamed by some critics for the poor showing of his Worcester team. They say that Billy wants to tell every batter just what ball he shall hit, with the result that his players don't know where they stand or what they shall do.

Eddie Rousch, ex-Fed star, has been decorating the bench with the other Giants who have failed. Getting caught first base something like nine times in a dozen games made Manager McGraw think it wouldn't hurt the ex-Fed to watch the pitchers' motions from the coop. Dave Robertson, who succeeded Rousch, may be lame in the shoulders and in the legs, but there is nothing halting about his mentality.

The best beer brewed"

For four years manager in the big leagues, in an editorial in the Kansas City Star, says: "And here's another thing that may sound odd, but it's true just the same, and every old ball player will tell you so: a glass or two of beer after a game does not hurt any ball player—on the contrary, I believe it is a good thing. The player has expended a lot of energy; is hot through and through and a glass of beer will do him good. FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, May 23, 1876.—There was a frost in some parts of the city last evening though it did not do much damage. Howard Lee of the United States Express company, this morning received a sturgeon which weighed seventy-three pounds. It was caught in the northern region. This is quite a fish story. A night or two ago, a certain mechanic in the city, who occupies a room alone near the shop in which he works, went to bed and fell into a profound sleep. During the night, the rats became very familiar, hopped up on the bed and began to gnaw one of the sleeper's great toes. They not only drew blood, but succeeded in carrying away a considerable portion of that member. The end of it was badly torn, and strange to say, the operation did not in the least disturb the sleeper, as he knew nothing of what had been going on until the morning. If a rat can make a meal off of a man's toe, and not wake him, what will the poor fellow do when Gabriel blows his horn on the morning of the last day. The river is still on the rise.

Something To Draw

Betsy's Sister
Last week, you remember, we published Betsy's picture. This is Betsy's sister, and she is quite an intelligent-looking little girl. Look at drawing number one. That will give you a good idea as to how she looked when reading. Study her features closely, and then fill in picture number two, showing how you think she looked when she was pleased and wore a smile. Next, fill in picture number three, showing how you think she looked when she saw something real funny and couldn't help laughing. Finally, fill in number four, and show how you think she appeared when something failed to please her. First fill in the missing parts very lightly, with pencil. If you fail to get it just the way you think it ought to be, you can easily erase it. When you have it right, draw your lines heavier, or go over them with ink.

ADVISES ROTATION

FOR TOBACCO CROP

New Tobacco Fields Should be Supplied With Liberal Quantity of Manure and Acid Phosphate.

Many Wisconsin fields which in past seasons have supported crops of tobacco will be turned into corn land this year. The tobacco will be planted on new soil.

This rotation is found advisable because certain diseases of tobacco thrive best in old tobacco fields, and corn usually makes a splendid growth on old tobacco land, because of its high state of fertility and excellent physical condition.

New tobacco fields in the state will be much more productive if supplied with plenty of stable manure and commercial fertilizer. James Johnson of the College of Agriculture is recommending the application of from 500 to 1,000 pounds of acid phosphate to each acre, as a surface dressing just before planting.

Where growers have not steamed their plant beds, the growth of the plants may be stimulated by using nitrate of soda, two to three pounds in barrel of water, soaking the beds thoroughly late in May and early in June.

The long anticipated event of the Clinton high school year, the senior class play, was given Friday night at the city hall, and too much praise can not be given the members of the cast, as they deserve it all for the most excellent and masterly manner in which they acquitted themselves. The play, "A Siren's Song," was a college story and a very good and appropriate one. Each and every one of their lines in a most creditable manner; there was not one single error, mistake or a word forgotten and a great many have stated their opinion that it was the best home talent play ever given in Clinton. The audience was the largest without doubt ever assembled in Clinton for any event of any kind. For the first time since our city hall has been built it was filled to utmost capacity and about one hundred people had to stand. The receipts were $138.75; a large number were school children and only paid 15c, or the amount would have been much larger.

After the play the senior class gave a dance, which was patronized by a very fair crowd, and the class cleared for their own treasury $20. People from Delavan, Sharon, Avalon, Janesville, Beloit, Darien, and Woodstock, Ill., were in attendance at one or both events.
